About the JdP

---

The Jacqueline du Pré Music Building is the first concert hall to be built in Oxford since the Holywell Music Room was constructed in 1748. Owned and run by St Hilda's College, this unique hall was inspired by the wish to create a living memorial to the renowned cellist Jacqueline du Pré. The building was designed by architects van Heyningen and Haward and it boasts excellent acoustics thanks to internationally-acclaimed firm Arup. The result is an elegant and modern auditorium whose intimate environment is the perfect venue for chamber music. There are four practice rooms, an electroacoustic studio and the 200-seat Edward Boyle Auditorium with a Steinway D piano. St Hilda's College is committed to sustaining and developing the JdP as a centre for learning, teaching and performance for the benefit of all.

Introduction

It gives me great pleasure to welcome you to the JdP's concert series this year. An undoubted highlight will be Steven Isserlis' and Alasdair Beatson's concert on 1st December, the latest fruit of a continuing association between Steven, our patron, and the JdP. Since the JdP acoustic is so well-suited for piano music, we are profiling the great national piano traditions of six countries—France, Germany, Poland, Spain, America and Russia—in six concerts spread across the year.

2018 marks the 100th anniversary both of Debussy's death, and of the declaration of Polish independence. The former is marked by Bernard D'Ascoli's fascinating 'Debussy in Perspective' programme (Franck, Ravel, Chopin, Debussy), whereas the Poland-based English pianist, Jonathan Powell, presents a programme of Chopin and Szymanowski at the beginning of Hilary Term. Two further programmes feature the experimental pianism of Ives, Crawford Seeger and Nancarrow (America, 10th November 2018) and of Roslavets, Lourie and Volkonsky (Russia, 17th May 2019).

We are delighted to invite back the internationally-renowned lutenist, Elizabeth Kenny, to the JdP for the first of a series of concerts with her group, Theatre of the Ayre. Her programme of 17th century revolutionary English vocal music created during the Interregnum throws interesting light on a period of great political turmoil. Finally, the JdP is particularly excited to host two performances of Mark-Anthony Turnage's pulsating jazz/classical fusion masterwork, 'Blood on the Floor' in an ambitious collaboration between the OU Jazz Orchestra and the OU Sinfonietta.

Michaelmas Term Concerts

---

▶ Marco Donnarumma & Luke Nickel

Thursday 8th November | 1:15–6pm
FREE and open to all

---

We kick off the season with two extraordinary composers: Marco Donnarumma for a performance of his works and a lecture on robotics, biotechnology and electroacoustic music, and Luke Nickel who will present a lecture on notation, re-performance, loss of fidelity and memory.

1:15PM–2PM: Marco Donnarumma performance

2:30PM–3:30PM: Marco Donnarumma lecture

5PM–6PM Luke Nickel lecture

American Pioneers: ▶ Ives, Crawford Seeger, and the complete Nancarrow Jonathan Powell (piano)

Saturday 10th November | 7:30pm
£5 students | £13 stalls | £18 gallery

---

Pianist Jonathan Powell presents three American greats, all musical outsiders and pioneers.

'The stuff is fantastic... You've got to hear it. It'll kill you.'
—Frank Zappa on Nancarrow.

IVES: Sonata No. 2 'Concord' (1911-15)

CRAWFORD SEEGER: Nine Preludes (1924-28)
Study in Mixed Accents (1930)

Tango? (1983)
Three Canons for Ursula (1989)

▶ Debussy in Perspective:
Bernard d'Ascoli (piano)

Friday 23rd November | 7:30pm
£8 students | £22 stalls | £26 gallery

To celebrate the 100th anniversary of Debussy's death, Bernard D'Ascoli presents two of the French composer's masterpieces for piano, 'L'Isle Joyeuse' (1904) and the second book of 'Images' (1907). They are prefaced by key works from the composers who arguably influenced him most, Chopin and César Franck, and contrasted with the music of his greatest rival, Maurice Ravel.

FRANCK: Prelude, Choral and Fugue

CHOPIN: Six Studies

RAVEL: Valses Nobles et Sentimentales

DEBUSSY: Cloches à travers les feuilles
Poissons d'or
L'Isle joyeuse
Et la lune descend sur le temple qui fut

Steven Isserlis &
Alasdair Beatson

Saturday 1st December | 7:30pm
£10 students | £27 stalls | £32 gallery

Steven Isserlis returns to the JdP with a group of three sonatas, each of which manages to fuse elements of lyricism and of formal dynamism—Bach's First Gamba Sonata, Beethoven's popular A major Cello Sonata and Steven's own transcription of the Schumann Third Violin Sonata. The recital concludes with well-loved shorter pieces by Fauré and Schumann.

BACH: Gamba Sonata No. 1

BEETHOVEN: Sonata No. 3

FAURÉ Romance, Elegy

SCHUMANN: Violin Sonata No. 3 (arr. Isserlis)
Romances

Hilary Term Concerts

▶ Chopin, Schumann, Szymanowski Jonathan Powell (piano)

Saturday 12th January | 7:30pm | £5 students | £18 stalls | £23 gallery

Chopin, Schumann, Szymanowski: For this programme, Powell has chosen two staples of 19th-century repertoire to complement a survey of the piano music of Chopin's compatriot Karol Szymanowski.

Pre-concert talk by Adrian Thomas at 6:30pm.

SCHUMANN: Faschingsschwank aus Wien Op. 26

CHOPIN: Sonata No. 3 Op. 58

SZYMANOWSKI: Variations Op. 3, Sonata No. 2, Metopes Op. 29, Masques Op. 34, Mazurkas Op. 62

▶ Opera: The Beginning of an Idea

Saturday 19th January | 8pm | £5 students | £10 stalls | £13 gallery

Since 2005, students of the Opera and Music Theatre course directed by Professor Martyn Harry have created a number of cutting-edge productions of works by Berio, Wishart, Kagel and Cage, as well as the memorable world premieres of Chris Garrard's A Handmaid's Tale in 2013 and Toby Young's Witch in 2017. This year, a new opera by Joel Baldwin (St Hilda's) has been written to showcase some of the brightest contemporary opera talent Oxford has to offer.

Pre-concert talk with the opera's creators at 6:30pm.

MASH Marathon

Friday 1st February | 6:30pm | £5 on the door

Every year the JdP's new music marathon presents an evening-long festival concert of experimental music, live electronics, contemporary classical instrumental music and video. This year's concert features Ensemble Isis, works by Michael Zev Gordon, and a collection of new pieces by Jonathan Packham, Nicholas Moroz and many more!

▶ Schubert's Winterreise
Simon Wallfisch (baritone)
Edward Rushton (piano)

Friday 15th February | 7:30pm
£5 students | £10 stalls | £13 gallery

"A multi-talented musician of incredible versatility" (BBC Radio 3), Simon Wallfisch is one of Britain's most sought-after baritones, both on the opera and concert stage. He returns to the JdP to perform Schubert's song cycle, Winterreise, alongside pianist Edward Rushton.

Bach, Beethoven,
Schumann
Nick van Bloss (piano)

Friday 22nd February | 7:30pm
£8 students | £22 stalls | £26 gallery

One of the few pianists who can be compared to Glenn Gould for his brilliant passagework and rhythmic dynamism, Nick van Bloss presents one of the towering masterpieces of Romantic pianism, Schumann's 'Études Symphoniques' alongside two of the sounding models that undoubtedly influenced him: the early piano works of Beethoven and the keyboard suites of Bach.

BEETHOVEN: Variations Op. 34
Sonata Op. 31, No. 3

BACH: French Suite No. 6

SCHUMANN: Études Symphoniques

Hilary Term Concerts

---

▶ Theatre of the Ayre

A Quiet Revolution: English Vocal Music during the Interregnum

Saturday 2nd March | 7:30pm
£5 students | £15 stalls | £20 gallery

---

Elizabeth Kenny (lute and theorbo) and her 'crack-squad of top instrumentalists'—Nicholas Mulroy (tenor), Matthew Brook (bass baritone) and Alison McGillivray (bass viol and lra viol)—perform an inspirational programme of seventeenth-century music of quiet revolution.

Pre-concert talk with Elizabeth Kenny at 6:30pm.

Mark-Anthony Turnage's 'Blood on the Floor'

OU Sinfonietta and OU Jazz Orchestra

5th and 6th March | 8pm
£8 students | £13 stalls | £16 gallery

---

Mark-Anthony Turnage's 'Blood on the Floor', premiered in 1996, is a raw and moving work fuelled by the pain of loss. It takes its name from the striking painting by Francis Bacon. The composer skillfully melds his jazz and contemporary voices into what is considered his 'magnum "fusion" opus' (Gramophone). Come and hear some of Oxford's best musicians, conducted by Tom Fetherstonhaugh, in a groundbreaking project by two of the university's leading student orchestras.

Trinity Term Concerts

▶ Spain Past and Present: Jonathan Powell (piano)

Spain Past and Present: this programme combines masterpieces of Spanish repertoire from the early twentieth century with contemporary works from the peninsula.

Saturday 27th April | 7:30pm
£5 students | £13 stalls | £18 gallery

GRANADOS: Goyescas
MIKEL URQUIZA: Contrapluma (2016)
GABRIEL ERKOREKA: Ballades 1 and 2 (2017, 18)
ALBENIZ: Azulejos and Navarra
GUERRERO: Op. 1, Manual (1976)

▶ Seasons for Change: Maria Razumovskaya (piano)

Seasons for Change: The evocative miniatures that make up Tchaikovsky's The Seasons represent a bridge, perhaps existing only in the imagination, to an 'old Russia'—one untouched by the social unrest, inequality and violence that spilled over into civil war and revolution.

Friday 17th May | 7:30pm
£5 students | £12 stalls | £16 gallery

TCHAIKOVSKY: The Seasons
ROSLAVETS: Preludes
LOURIE: Forms en l'air
VOLKONSKY: Musica stricta

ANIMA: New Music with Animation

Friday 31st May | 7:30pm | £5 on the door

The ANIMA ensemble conducted by Chris Roe presents a night of live music with film, performing scores made by students from the Ruskin School of Art in close collaboration with student composers from the Music Faculty of the University of Oxford.

A Mini-Festival: Saturday 8th June

▶ 1:15pm Lunchtime Recital
with Jonathan Powell

£3 students | £7 stalls | £10 gallery
30% discount when booking for both events

GOEHR Nonomiya Op. 27 (1973)
HARRY: Bletchley Bedford Sandy (2014-19)
GOEHR: ...In Real Time Op. 50 (1988)

7:30pm Villiers Quartet ▶
with Ib Haussman

£5 students | £13 stalls | £18 gallery
Pre-concert talk at 6:30pm

GOEHR String Quartet No. 5 (2019)
HARRY: Borderline (2019)
GOEHR: Clarinet Quintet (2007)

These two concerts interleave piano works and string quartets by one of Britain's greatest living composers, Alexander Goehr, with the music of one of his former students, Martyn Harry, who is professor of composition at Oxford University's Faculty of Music and the lecturer of music here at St Hilda's College. The second concert juxtaposes two new works composed for the Villiers Quartet, including Goehr's Fifth Quartet, which was commissioned by the Swaledale Festival.

Our festival surveys Goehr's music from different parts of his career, tracing his journey from one of the UK's leading representatives of the avant-garde to a composer whose work suggests a strong critical engagement with the music of the past. There are rare opportunities to hear live performances of the large-scale piano cycle '...In Real Time', whose sonority and temporal structure is a fascinating development of Messaien's music, and the Clarinet Quintet, which is based on a mass by Josquin.

Whereas our perception of time is arguably a key concern for Goehr, Martyn Harry's works employ maps to represent physical space in music, reflecting on ideas taken from landscape studies and social geography. 'Bletchley Bedford Sandy' is the second of his large-scale cycle of piano pieces, '48', and is dedicated to Alexander Goehr, drawing its inspiration from the names of the nine stations on the now-defunct 'Varsity Line' that ran from Oxford to Cambridge before its closure in 1967. Harry's powerful new 'Borderline' for string quartet presents a topological representation of the border between Ireland and Northern Ireland in sound.

The JdP is one of the finest venues in the country for chamber music and is an ever-evolving hub of creativity. It is a vital part of St Hilda's College and makes a significant contribution to the cultural life of both the University and the local community in widening access to music with its Cushion Concerts, schools' events and concerts for people with dementia. It is an invaluable resource to students and academic staff, providing spaces for practice, rehearsals, concerts, workshops, seminars and conferences. The JdP has always kept its doors open to the public with over 80 events each year, many of which are free and provide our young musicians with a platform for growth and the unique opportunity to perform for a live audience. As the only modern concert venue in Oxford, its hall, practice rooms, and musical instruments are in constant use. Our vision is to be at the very heart of the city's music scene; be a part of our exciting future and join our Music Circle today!

DANSOX Events

---

DANSOX provides a major forum for dance scholarship in Europe. It promotes dialogue between prominent academic disciplines and the worlds of dance theory and practice through a series of workshops and functions. Many of these events, funded by TORCH and other sponsors, are held at the JdP and are directed by Professor Susan Jones (Fellow in English of St Hilda's College and former soloist with The Scottish Ballet). DANSOX explores the ways in which the role of choreographic practice reveals its essential contribution to innovations across academic fields, theatre and performance. Its patrons are Dame Monica Mason (former director of The Royal Ballet) and Sheila Forbes CBE (former Principal of St Hilda's College).

Kenneth MacMillan: Making Dance Beyond the Boundaries

Saturday 16th March | 10am to 6pm

A one-day conference on the life and work of the great twentieth-century choreographer Sir Kenneth MacMillan (1929-1992), who commented on his own ballets, 'I wanted dance to express something outside its experience'. MacMillan stands among the great innovators of his time in theatre, film, art, and music, and pushed the limits of potential subject matter and its treatment in dance and ballet. He daringly expressed extremes of human emotion, mood, political issue and conflict. Join us for discussion of his work, the challenges of preserving the record, explore little known early work, his literary and musical choices, design, and choreographic method. Guest speakers include: the artist and widow of Sir Kenneth, Lady MacMillan; the former Principal and Director of the Royal Ballet, Dame Monica Mason; the music expert, Natalie Wheen; and choreologist, Anna Trevien. Dancers, artists, and filmmakers who worked with Kenneth will join the conversation. Film of his work to be shown. See the website for more details: jdp.sthildas.ox.ac.uk

Exploring Dance Scholarship with Alastair Macaulay (chief dance critic, New York Times) 7th-9th July

Lectures, workshops and seminars each day. More information and details about this conference will be available online shortly at jdp.sthildas.ox.ac.uk/events/dansox.
